WASHINGTON, Ark. (AP)—Rep. Nathan Schoenfeld of Garland County told the Arkansas Legislative Council today that its obligation to investigate charges of price-fixing on asphalt sold to the Highway Department.

Schoenfeld has filed with the council a request for an investigation. He spoke in behalf of his request today.

"The proper authorities must, forthwith, proceed to institute criminal action where indicated and commerce civil action to recover all damages due the state, including treble damages where such a penalty is indicated and interest in full," Schoenfeld said.

The question came up after the Missouri Highway Department moved in court to recover overpayments for asphalt.

Schoenfeld said Kansas and Oklahoma also have found evidence of overpricing of asphalt.

"Oklahoma has damage suits totaling $30 million pending against eight oil companies," Schoenfeld said.

"There is no reason for Arkansas and its people to continue to be victimized by the alleged collusion and conspiracy which has allegedly existed in the past," Schoenfeld said.

Court Ruling to Bring a Big Storm

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another storm seems certain to break over the Supreme Court for a decision it gave Monday, one of its most far-reaching and historic.

Under the right of an individual not to incriminate himself has been extended and strengthened as never before.

But, as a result of it, far fewer people held as criminal suspects will admit anything; police therefore will have to work a lot harder solving crimes, and perhaps fewer of them will be solved.

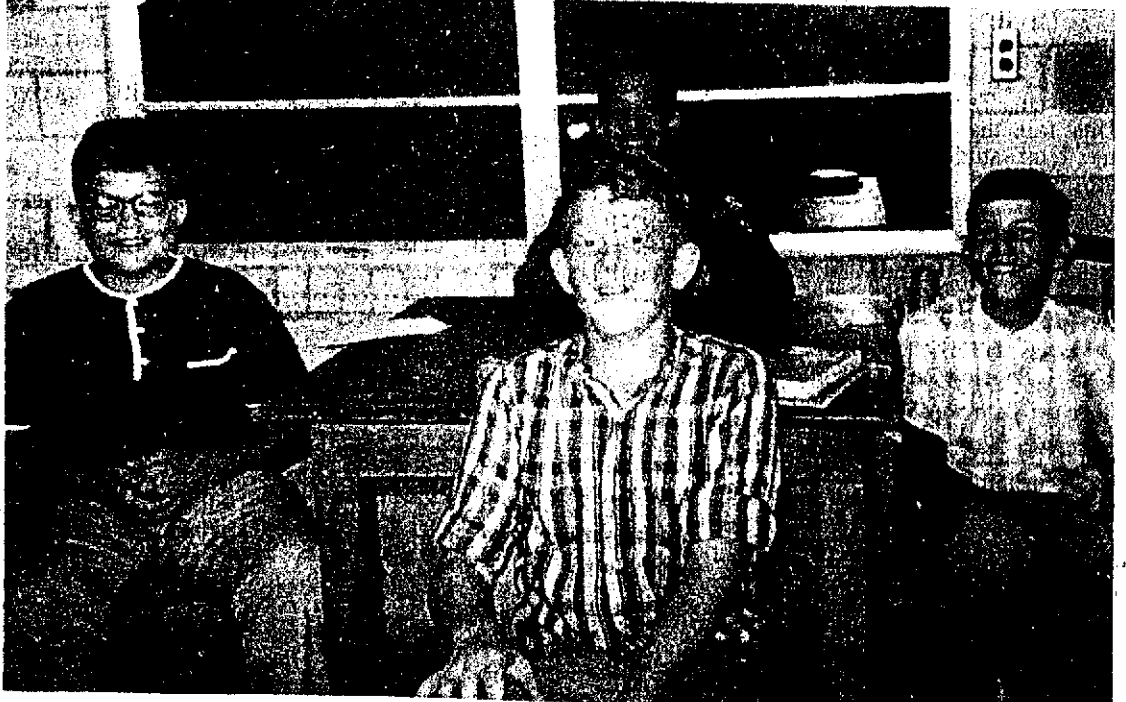

In a 5-4 decision, written by Chief Justice Earl Warren, the court laid down these rules which police must follow scrupulously before attempting to question an arrested suspect:

1. He must be told he has the right to stay silent.
2. He must be told anything he says may be used against him in court.
3. He must be told he has the right to have an attorney with him before any questioning.
4. He must be told that, if he wants an attorney but can't afford one, an attorney will be provided for him free.
5. If, after being told all this, an arrested suspect says he does not want a lawyer and is willing to be questioned he may be provided he reached his decision "knowingly and intelligently."
6. If, after being told all his rights a suspect agrees to be questioned, he can shut off the questions any time after they have started, whether or not he has an attorney with him.

Rule No. 5's requirement — that a voluntary confession or statement can stand up in court only if made "knowingly and intelligently" — will no doubt be the basis for countless appeals from future convictions.

the Constitution's Fifth Amendment which says "no person shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself," which means he can't be compelled to incriminate himself.

Justice John M. Harlan, one of the four justices who disagreed with the decision, dissented in very strong language.

In part he said: "I believe the decision of the court represents poor constitutional law and entails harmful consequences for the country at large. The thrust of the new rules is ultimately to discourage any confession at all."

"We do know that some crimes cannot be solved without confessions. The court is taking a real risk with society's welfare in imposing its new regime on the country.

"The social costs of crime are too great to call the new rules anything but a hazardous experimentation."

Two years ago the Supreme Court overturned the conviction of Danny Escobedo for murder after Warren said, police got a confession from him in a police station, the result of questioning him four hours without advising him of his right to say nothing and of his right to consult with an attorney.

This decision caused a storm by itself. "A spirited legal debate," Warren called it. It raised the question of how much further the court might still go in protecting criminal suspects and how far police could go in questioning them.

The attorneys general of 27 states urged the court not to put further limits on questioning suspects in criminal cases. Monday's decision was the court's answer, spelled out in detail.

Warren said the court encourages Congress and state legislatures to develop their own safeguards against self-incrimination by criminal suspects.

But the chief justice indicated such safeguards won't stand up before the Supreme Court unless they are as effective as the rules laid down Monday. And, of course, the Supreme Court will do the deciding on whether they are.

Debbie Says 'NO' To Way-Out Sex

BY DICK KLEINER
Hollywood Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Debbie Reynolds is a voice crying in the wilderness—the sexy wilderness of motion pictures today. There are very few stars around who have her principles and the determination to stick to them.

"I turned a picture down yesterday," she said. "It was a very funny script. But the girl goes to bed with a married man and doesn't consider it bad."

"Well, I just won't do it. It's adultery and adultery is a sin—it says so in the Ten Commandments."

"The picture will be made. I know plenty of girls who would do it—Natalie would do it. Elizabeth would do it—and more power to them. Maybe they couldn't do the things I can do, like 'Molly Brown,' where I had to dance and sing and sweat and eat dirt."

Three long ones for Debbie. The line has to be drawn someplace, and maybe she's the girl who can do it.

JACK KRUSCHEN'S MUSTACHE is going the way of all flesh. If, indeed, mustaches are flesh. Anyhow, for only the third time since he grew it, he's shaving it off, sacrificing his upper lip for his art.

He has a good part in "Caprice," a new Frank Tashlin film with Doris Day and Richard Harris. He had to look younger for it, so off went the mustache and a dozen pounds, and he's darkening his hair and getting a wardrobe of tight-fitting clothes.

"A new image," Jack says, preening a bit. Kruschen, one of Hollywood's ace character men, thinks we're moving into an era when character men will get the recognition they deserve.

"We used to be forgotten men," Jack says. "But television has changed that—television has made stars out of character men like Lorne Greene and Ernie Borgnine."

Of course, if he keeps on looking younger, he may wind up a leading man in this coming era of character men.

"GO AHEAD, I DARE YOU."

Martin Landau had challenged me to name five good pictures made in the United States in the last two years. It isn't easy.

"If there is a good picture made here," Landau said, "it's by mistake: it's purely an accident."

He wasn't anti-American, merely citing the fruits of what he considers an erroneous concept of moviemaking here.

"How do they make movies here? A studio buys a property, generally from a hit play or best-selling novel. It assigns it to a producer, who doesn't even have to like it, just make it. The same thing for a director. They cast a few stars in it, and they don't particularly care if they're right for the roles. They hire a film cutter, who may not even know what the director wants to do with it. Somebody in New York is writing the music, independently.

"There is no over-all direction to the project. In Europe, a picture is the work of one man—it's his idea, he usually writes it, produces and directs it, sees it through from beginning to end. It has cohesion. It may fail—many do—but at least it has the mark of one man on it."

Landau's wife, Barbara Bain, will star this fall in a new CBS series, Mission Impossible. This springs from a feature film originally written for Landau—the hero was first named Martin Land—and he'll appear in nine of the first 13.

"It's the best deal in the world," he says.

Ineptness of Gathings Is Cited by Foe

MEMPHIS (AP)—Lee Ward of Jonesboro opened his campaign for 1st District congressman by labeling his opponent, Rep. E. C. Gathings, D-Ark., an inept legislator with little going for him but years of service.

Ward predicted, in a telecast from WMCT-TV here, that Gathings would appeal to the voters on the basis of 28 years of seniority in Congress. Gathings has held his post since 1939.

Gathings' blunders have "cut the throat of Arkansas rice growers from ear to ear," Ward said.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP)—Summer replacements of variety shows with other variety shows usually have the unmistakable look and sound of low-budget programs.

CBS' "Continental Showcase" which took over Jackie Gleason's early Saturday evening spot this weekend seemed to have all the characteristics of a typical summer replacement — a program of assorted vaudeville and night club acts under a vague title. It was made in Europe, where production costs are lower, and held together by an American host, Jim Backus of "Gilligan's Island."

"Continental Showcase" turned out to be a happy surprise — an entertaining hour with good talent, off-beat backgrounds and very good camera work. Did Ed Sullivan ever show the Buckingham Palace guard band playing a zippy, jazzy tune?

In addition to British soldiers swinging in their fur hats, there was an effective folk-singing team from Israel, France popular singing star Gilbert Beaud, and Germany's Kessler twins, who have been seen often on American television. There was an unusual version of a "West Side Story" dance number shot in the formal gardens of a Munich castle.

Occasionally the synchronization of a musical number with the lips of the singers was something less than perfect, but that has happened in more pretentious shows made on Hollywood sound stages, too.

The comedy numbers fared less well, and Backus could have been more effective if he had just stayed with introducing the acts.

NBC's "Politics: The Outer Fringe" Sunday night was a once-over-lightly treatment about the radical right and left. It moved over an extremely broad canvas, from Gus Hall of the Communist party on one hand to the Ku Klux Klan and the Minutemen on the other.

Between time limitations, the size of the subject and, one suspects, some difficulty in lining up interviewees, the program was not too satisfying. The subject could stand some penetrating treatment.

CBS will follow its "Death of a Salesman" with two dramatic treats next season — Tennessee Williams' "The Glass Menagerie" and Arthur Miller's "The Crucible." Both will be two-hour treatments.

NBC has lined up the same production team to present a two-hour adaptation of "Othello" with Sidney Poitier in the title role.

"Petticoat Junction" fans must have noticed when the show returned last September that two of its three daughters in the CBS comedy series were new faces. Next September, the part of Billie Jo will be taken by a third actress, Meredith MacRae, daughter of Gordon and Shiela MacRae.

Apology Is Sign Of Strength

Dear Helen: Some people think it is a sign of weakness if you admit you are wrong and apologize. What do you think? — N.N.

Dear N: To admit you are wrong (if you are) and apologize shows strength of character. If you can't you are miserably insecure. — H.

P.S. That goes double for parents. He who is "always right" often isn't; children soon lose respect for this kind of mother or father.

And while we're getting philosophical, let's consider Praise, which too many people either can't or won't give. Reasons are varied, sometimes complicated — and not always connected up with jealousy, as is often supposed. Here are a few:

Men, raised to be ruggedly masculine ("Boys don't cry," "Boys don't show emotion, except anger," etc.) sometimes figure it's effeminate to give compliments. "Embarrassing," they mutter.

Some parents, it seems, are afraid praise may spoil the child. If they could read my bitter teen letters that say, "My folks never notice me except when I do wrong," they might realize how foolish they are.

And then there are those who fear their compliments will sound insincere, will be mistaken for "toadying," or won't be accepted graciously.

They have a point. How many times have YOU said something nice, only to be answered with "You don't really mean that," or "I bet you say that to all the girls," or a similar brush-off? Almost everyone needs a refresher course in how to light up and glow at a compliment. If more people received praise as if it were a lovely gift, more praise would be given. — H.

Dear Helen: When people are ill or need help, I have always tried to help. Now the tables are turned. I have been in bed for six weeks with a heart condition. I have five children in school. So far not one person has offered to help in any way. One couple from our church has been to call. One other family stopped for a few minutes. Not one get-well card have I received, nor has anyone baked one cookie or one pie to bring in to us. One of the children was seriously ill with pneumonia while I have been confined to bed. No one seemed to care.

Helen, don't people have any feelings for others any more? I didn't realize times had changed so much. — Mrs. Blue And Downhearted

Dear Mrs. B: I can't believe people could be this unfeeling. Either they don't know about your illness (you'd be surprised how often even next door neighbors aren't aware these days), or else they operate on the "Let George do it" theory. If your children would spread the word, I'll bet you'd be deluged with company. — H.

Dear Helen: Regarding "Mad who can't find a good five-cent greeting card:

What this country needs is more people with the forethought to write an individual personal note, rather than depend on impersonal cards for remembrances. Same idea is true when you take flowers to the sick. A bought bouquet is not as nearly as nice as an offering of love from your garden — or perhaps a gift chosen especially for the person.

What has happened to old-fashioned ingenuity? Card companies didn't exist in George Washington's time, and he penned some of the most delightful notes ever written. I'd far rather have a personal letter on scratch paper than the most artificial card, with nothing but a signature. I suggest that "Mad" scratch the "Mad Spot" and use time for being personal rather than wasting it searching for a greeting card. — B. R. B.

Mengert Has Lead in U.S. Open Meet

Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Al Mengert, a club pro from Tacoma, Wash., who grabbed the first-round lead in the U.S. Open Golf Tournament, says mental condition is all-important for the darkhorse.

"A fellow like me, a club pro, has to lick a mental block," Mengert said after carving out a three-under-par 67 Thursday. "A club pro only plays about three times a week. The guys on the tour play all the time and you may figure that gives them an advantage. So you have to get geared up mentally. You have to build your confidence."

It also gave him a one-stroke lead over Gene Littler and Don Massengale, and a two-stroke margin over Billy Casper. He toured the 6,719 yards of the par 70 Olympic Country Club course without suffering a bogey. He had three birds.

So his mental condition — so far as golf is concerned — seemed fine.

"I'm a family man," he said. "I don't like the tour. I like tournaments, but not the tour. I can't take that day to day grind."

He has played in nine Masters and is in his seventh open. This, of course, is his best showing. Littler, the 1961 Open champion, and Massengale managed to take two strokes off par and Billy Casper was one under.

Marichal Is Ahead in 30 Game Effort

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Juan Marichal will more than likely miss pitching in the three-game weekend series at Los Angeles against the Dodgers, which could hurt the San Francisco Giants.

But it won't hurt Marichal's bid to win 30 games this season. He became the major's first 12-game winner this season by stopping the Houston Astros 2-1 Thursday on four hits.

The victory put Marichal 13 days or three turns ahead of Dizzy Dean, last man to win 30 major league games in one season. Dean did it in 1934 for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Marichal's latest masterpiece came in the 62nd game of the season. In the 100 games remaining, Marichal should get about 25 more starts.

This means Marichal must post an 18-7 record for the rest of the way to pick up 30. Dean finished 1934 at 30-7.

Hockey May Be on TV Each Week

MONTREAL (AP) — Weekly televising of National Hockey League games in the United States is a distinct possibility now that the circuit has put its TV package on paper.

The proposed package, which includes 14 regular season games plus at least three playoff games, was approved by the NHL Board of Governors Thursday when the league ended its annual summer meetings. The proposal will be submitted to the National Broadcasting Co. which last season televised coast-to-coast for the first time four playoff games.

Labor Revolt Meets Defeat

LONDON (AP)—Another revolt by home members of Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor party met the usual crushing defeat Wednesday night when the voting took place.

The caucus of Labor members of the House of Commons voted 225-54 to reject a motion by left and right wingers calling for the withdrawal of British troops east of Suez. Wilson told them such a move would be "the surest prescription for a nuclear holocaust I can think of."

Wilson's critics sought to cut defense spending in Malaysia, Singapore and the Persian Gulf. They accused the government of continuing to act like a great power abroad while the nation is in dire economic straits.

Oriole Streak Snapped; Sox Win a Pair

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
Pete Richert tried hard. In fact, he tried so hard he almost didn't earn the letter he prizes so much the W for win.

Earlier this season, after striking out seven straight batters to tie an American League record but losing the game 4-0 to Detroit Richert said:

"It don't mean a thing if you don't get the big W. You've got to get the win."

The Washington southpaw got the big W Thursday night in the Senators' 2-1 victory over league-leading Baltimore, but despite allowing only one hit, he needed ninth inning help to get it.

Richert, touched by Brooks Robinson for a lead-off single in the second when Baltimore scored an unearned run, was sailing along until he lost his control in the ninth.

He walked the first two batters in the ninth — Bob Johnson and Frank Robinson — before Ron Kline came in to pitch out of the jam.

"I don't know what happened," said Richert, who now has a 7-6 record. "I guess I was just trying too hard." Up to the first walk in the ninth he had retired 19 straight Orioles, who had a four-game winning streak snapped.

Besides good pitching there was another big reason behind the Senators' victory — 6-foot-7 Frank Howard. He singled home both Washington runs in the third.

In other American League games, the Chicago White Sox took a doubleheader from Kansas City 6-4 and 5-2. Detroit smashed Boston 16-4, the New York Yankees edged Cleveland 7-6 and California beat Minnesota 7-2.

Atlanta walloped the New York Mets 17-1. Philadelphia whirled Cincinnati 11-2. Pittsburgh nipped St. Louis 2-1. San Francisco got by Houston 2-1 and the Chicago Cubs defeated Los Angeles 5-3 in the National League.

Tom McCraw was the big gun for the White Sox. He tripled in his only official at bat and scored three runs in their 6-4 first game victory and drove in all of their runs with a grand slam homer and a bases empty blast in the 5-2 nightcap triumph.

Kauai King Has Been Syndicated

BALTIMORE (AP) — Kauai King, Mike Ford's colt who won the first two legs of racing's Triple Crown before losing the Belmont, has been syndicated for a record $2,520,000.

"It's quite a deal isn't it?" Ford said after the syndication was formed to sell the Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner.

The 3-year-old Maryland-bred colt will be retired to stud at Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Sagamore Farm near Baltimore after the 1967 racing season. Kauai King's sire, the great Native Dancer who is now 16, also stands at Sagamore.

The syndication is based on 36 shares at $70,000 apiece and Ford said he "retains less than 11 shares" for himself.

Hubert Pays for Crowd Damage

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has paid a Louisville man $10 for damage to a 30-foot hedge behind his house caused by a crowd that engulfed Humphrey at an impromptu political rally for local candidates.

Shortly after the rally last Oct. 23, Emmet Minia, 76, a retired auto painter, received a letter from Humphrey which said: "I just read in the account of my visit in the Courier-Journal that the crowd waiting to greet me trampled your hedge. If there was serious damage to the hedge, I hope you will let me know. I am sorry about the damage and hope we can fix things up."

Minia billed the vice president for transplanting and fertilizing boxwood plant. He named the plants as the Hubert Humphrey Boxwoods.

Buckpasser Returns to Competition

By ORLO ROBERTSON

Associated Press Sports Writer
Buckpasser, the 1965 2-year-old champion, returns to stakes competition Saturday in the 11 miles of the Leonard Richards at Delaware Park. What he does in the $35,000-added race should indicate whether he'll be in the hunt for the 3-year-old title on which Kauai King and Amberoid have taken a early hold.

The powerfully built son of Tom Fool and Busanda won the Everglades and Flamingo at Hialeah Park last winter before being sidelined by a quarter-crack. He returned to competition June 4 at Aqueduct with an impressive six-furlong triumph over older horses.

As a final tune-up for the Leonard Richards, trainer Eddie Nelyo sent the Ogden Phipps-owned colt six furlongs in 1:13.3-5 over the Delaware track Wednesday after working a handy mile in 1:40.2-5 at Belmont Park last Friday. Braulio Baeza will be in the colt's saddle Saturday.

Not more than five or six horses are expected to tackle Buckpasser but one of the three the King Ranch's Buffle could make it a horse race. But he, runner-up to Amberoid in the Belmont Stakes and third in the Bay Shore and Wood Memorial, put in a 1:11.4-5 six-furlong at Belmont Park before leaving for Delaware.

The other probable entries include Jolly Jet, winner of three straight before finishing fifth in the Belmont Stakes, Hy Frost, Deck Hand, perhaps Gun Flino and maybe another Nelyo-trained colt — Crossing The T or Irish Ruler.

Records May Fall in NCAA Meet Today

By JERRY LISKA

Associated Press Sports Writer
BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—San Jose State's Tommie Smith, looming as the world's all-time fastest human, and Texas A&M's Randy Matson, the world's best shot putter, get down to case in the 45th CAA track and field meet today.

In preliminary competition Thursday at Indiana University, Smith officially matched the NCAA 100-yard record of 9.3 and unofficially equalled the world 220-yard mark of 20.2, while Matson easily set an NCAA shot put mark of 65-6-4 on one of his two qualifying tosses.

The meet tempo picks up today in another twilight session with six finals. Included are an expected hot 100-yard showdown between Smith and defending champion Charlie Greene of Nebraska, and the shot put in which Matson should improve on his NCAA record.

Value of an Oriental rug is determined by the number of knots it contains in a square inch.

Braves Stomp Mets; Juan Wins No. 12

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer
Tony Cloninger was batting .500 when $100,000 convinced him he had no future as a hitter. Now he's batting .184 — and wondering again.

The Atlanta nitcher, a $100,000 bonus baby eight years ago and a 24-game winner last season, turned slugger Thursday night, driving in five runs with the second and third homers of his major league career as the Braves stomped the New York Mets 17-1.

The Braves' 17 runs and 22 hits were the highest single-game totals in the majors this year.

Cloninger started out as a hard-hitting catcher at Rock Springs High school in Denver, N.C., but wound up as a pitching sensation who attracted scouts from every major league club. "Like all athletes in high school, I hit real good," he said. "My last year I hit .500, but that doesn't mean much."

"I always wanted to play every day, but I soon found out in talking to major league scouts that I didn't have a chance as a catcher. They said I might be a good defensive catcher, but they didn't think I'd hit enough. I guess they were right."

The 25-year-old right-hander, who was struggling along with a 5-7 pitching record before his date with the Mets, stopped them on five hits while stroking a single in addition to three-run and two-run homers—for a 63-point boost in his batting average to .184.

Cloninger hit his only previous big league homer last season—against the Mets.

Elsewhere in the National League, San Francisco's Juan Marichal became the majors' first 12-game winner in the first place Giants' 2-1 victory over Houston, the Chicago Cubs upended Don Drysdale and the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-3; Philadelphia slugged Cincinnati 12-5 with a 19-hit attack and Pittsburgh edged St. Louis 2-1.

Washington nipped Baltimore 2-1, New York shaded Cleveland 7-6, Detroit bombed Boston 18-4, California trimmed Minnesota 7-2 and Chicago swept a twin-glider from Kansas City 6-4, 5-2 in American League play.

'Diamond Jim's' World — Glitter Long Gone

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—It gets a bit depressing for Jim Gentile, who is only 31, to look around the Houston Astros' clubhouse and hear kids talk about their draft status or the new trend in safety razors.

Gentile is at an age where he should be enjoying some security from a game he has played professionally for 14 years.

"Not on this club," Gentile said. "I like this team and I like Grady Hatton, but they got all these young ballplayers and I keep wondering how long they're going to keep that kid Chuck Harrison down in the minors."

Sounds strange coming from Jim Gentile. Here is a guy who is one of the better power hitters in baseball, a 6-4, 215-pound first baseman who once cracked 46 home runs and had 141 RBI for Baltimore in 1961.

Australian Downs French Player

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Rod Laver of Australia, the No. 1 seed, defeated Pierre Barthes of France 7-9, 6-4, 6-4 Thursday night in the $17,000 U.S. Professional Hardcourt Tennis Championship.

Pancho Segura of Ecuador defeated Mal Anderson of Australia 6-3, 6-1. Anderson earlier had whipped the No. 2 seeded player, Australian Ken Rosewall.

Rosewall and Lew Hoad of Australia downed Barthes and Andres Gimeno of Spain 6-4, 6-2 in a doubles match.

But Jim Gentile also is the example of the baseball player who gets a reputation and never loses it. The result is a constant feeling of insecurity.

"I can't afford a bad year," Gentile said. "If I sit on the bench again like last season when I came over here, my value goes down that much more."

"See, I've got this reputation and it's followed me from the beginning down in the minors. They all say I'm a hot-head, hard-to-handle."

"I thought I was set with Baltimore, but they signed Hank Bauer to manage and he's got his own ideas about the kind of player he wants. So he trades me and gets Norm Siebern, a steady, quiet guy, to replace me."

"Then the word starts getting around. The managers pass it on to the other managers. And your reputation grows."

"Look what happened to me last year. I was leading the American League in home runs when the A's decided to get rid of me, and still I was waived out of the league. It's hard to believe I couldn't have helped one team in that league. Again, it had to be my reputation."

"You know, I may go along for two months without losing my temper, but then if I lose it once everyone says 'there he goes again.' All the good days are wiped out now."

"This season I came to spring training with a different attitude. I knew I couldn't afford to sit on the bench. So I lost 20 pounds. That helped. Then Grady Hatton (Astros manager) told me what he expected and I worked on his suggestions all spring. They were just tips on my batting form that he picked out."

"I don't know what's going to happen now. They're going with as many young guys as they can because that's the future of this club."

"I've just got to hope they'll play me all the time, against lefties, too."

"So far, I guess they're satisfied because they're leaving me alone and I like that."

"I don't like a manager to stay on me. One manager I had, and I won't mention any names, fined me for everything. It got so I was paying $200 for this, $100 for that."

Jim Gentile still is paying.

Speedup in Play in Tournament

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The speedup of play in the National Open Golf Championship Thursday cut more than an hour off the average time for the 18-hole first round.

The last threesome toured the Olympic Course in four hours, 15 minutes compared with five hours, 27 minutes last year at Bellerive in St. Louis. Under the speed-up players must put out continuously and can clean the ball only once on a green, that before the first putt.

Let the grass grow, George (but not under your feet).

DeGaulle Visit to Moscow Worries U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle's plan to seek a basis for French-Soviet understanding on eventual unification of Germany when he visits Moscow next week worries American policy makers.
U.S. officials are not sure what terms for German unification De Gaulle may suggest to the Soviets. But they are concerned that whatever he has in mind may in some way be directed toward reducing U.S. power and influence in Europe.
Reports have circulated among diplomats for several weeks that the long deadlocked division of Germany would be one of De Gaulle's principal topics in his Moscow talks. The reports got official confirmation Wednesday when French Ambassador Charles Lucet spoke at a National Press Club luncheon here. He said De Gaulle would bring up the German issue.
"He will look into the possibility of solving the German problem," Lucet said, "because without that no durable peace can be achieved."
In his speech, Lucet also said that "German reunification is possible only within a Europe that itself would cease to be divided."
Diplomatic authorities took this to mean that De Gaulle is thinking of the possibility of reunifying West Germany and Communist East Germany within the framework of his own larger European policy. He sometimes has described this as a Europe organized from the Atlantic to the Urals — a European system which would include the Soviet Union and the Eastern Communist nations.
De Gaulle's plan to sound out the Soviets on a German settlement is regarded here as one more break in the allied front toward Russia. From the Washington point of view this process currently is dramatized by De Gaulle's withdrawal of all French forces from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and his ouster of NATO military headquarters and installations from France, though France remains a member of NATO.

Pirate Ships That Scream in the Night

By TOM A. CULLEN
European Staff
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
LONDON — (NEA) — To most people William Vick looks like any other crew-cut Texas millionaire in a silk suit. But to the British government he has a black patch over one eye and a knife between his teeth.
For Vick is the managing director of Swinging Radio England, the newest and most powerful of the pirate radio stations that are now operating from ships off the English shores.
From a converted Liberty ship anchored in international waters off the Essex coast, Vick's pirate station is now pumping nonstop pop music and commercials into the ears of 54 million Britons. And there is nothing the British government can do about it, apparently, except to call him names.

Understandably, Vick, who comes from Amarillo, prefers "offshore broadcasting" to "piracy" as a description of his activities. But in the eyes of the British government he is a plain buccaneer.
Until now broadcasting in the United Kingdom has been the monopoly of the British Broadcasting Corporation, which looks upon advertising with horror. The postmaster general has threatened to sink any pirate radio station that dares to sully the pure air of Britain with its commercial jingles. He has even threatened to prosecute those who supply equipment or food to the pirate ships that house these radio stations, and to make anyone who buys advertising time walk the plank.

But William (call me Bill) Vick and the anonymous American backers who have put up $3 million for Swinging Radio England are not worried. They say that the postmaster general's threats are hollow.
Having taken the advice of international lawyers, Vick is confident that, as things now stand, the British government cannot touch him or any of the other pirate broadcasters who are now bombarding the British Isles.

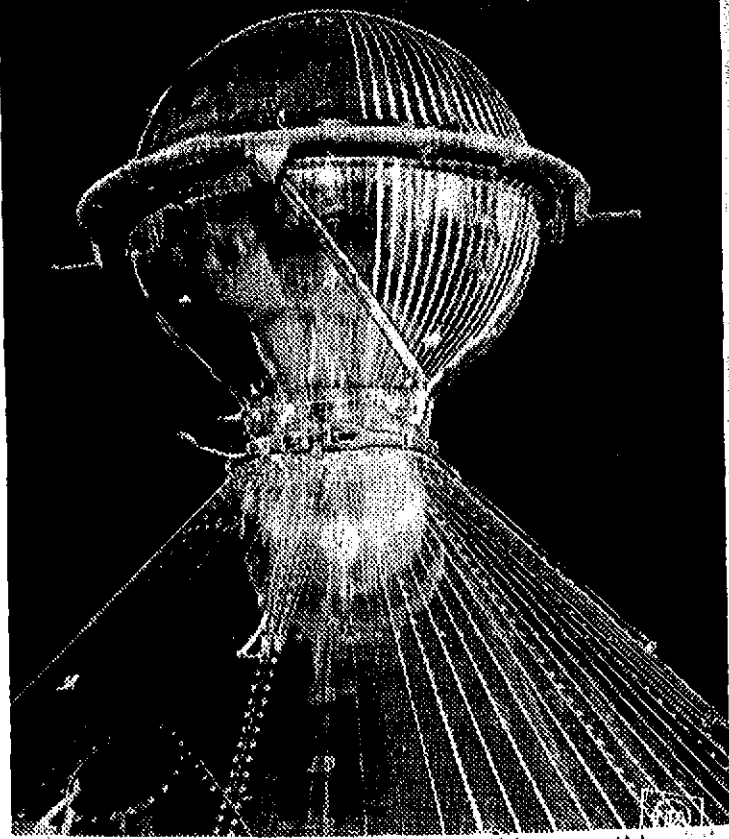

Swinging Radio England is the first of the pirates to bring Britons the American blessing of round-the-clock pop served piping hot by nine American disc jockeys.
"I think the British will soon be proud of the type of program we put out," Vick says in a soft drawl. "Our aim is to offer cleancut, wholesome entertainment. There are certain words, for example, which we will not use."
"I think the British will end up by inviting us to come ashore and to set up a proper commercial radio station. After all, we have the know-how, and it would be the sporting thing to do."

Others are not so optimistic. They predict that the British government will legislate against the pirates next year.
As the newest comer in the field, Swinging Radio England is already running into fierce competition from the existing pirate fleet strung out along Britain's coast.
The oldest is Radio Caroline, which celebrated its second birthday at Easter, and which has just spent $280,000 on a complete overhaul.
One pirate radio station is located in an abandoned fort in the mouth of the Thames. Another is located off the west coast of Scotland. A mysterious pirate, the Swedish-owned Cheetah II, is said to be planning a 625-line private television service off Bristol.

For minimum risks, pirate broadcasting offers rich rewards. The five main stations are estimated to take $6 million a year between them in advertising revenue. A third of Britain's population listens to them.
Vick has no fears that offshore broadcasting has reached the saturation point. "New York with eight million people has about 100 stations, so there is plenty of room for competition here."

B A R E S

By WALTER C. PARKES
All men start life as babies and wives know some of them remain so into middle age.
The advertising of many autos stresses engine power and speed. Part of the new safety drive, no doubt.
A daily double is good or bad, depending on whether you grab it at the race track or the bar.

MAP MAKER—To be launched later this year, this canister assembly will release in orbit an inflatable satellite designed to bring mapping of the earth's land masses closer to pinpoint accuracy. In orbit, the satellite, called Pageos (Passive Geodetic Satellite), will inflate to 100-foot diameter and will serve as an aerial reference point for a worldwide mapping survey. The canister assembly was constructed by Goodyear Aerospace for NASA.

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Heart Attack Is Broad Term
BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—Our doctor prescribed sharp pain in the chest—Isordil and nitroglycerine for especially a angina pectoris, my husband's coronary heart which is caused by a spasm of disease. Is Isordil a new medicine? Is it a coronary artery rather than cine? Is it all right for my onary heart disease. Anginal husband to drink beer or attacks may recur whenever the victim walks uphill, over-eats or has an emotional upset. On the other hand, following a true coronary heart attack the victim usually recovers but many have another attack after several months or years.

Q—What are the symptoms of arteriosclerotic heart disease? What can be done for it?
A—Arteriosclerotic heart disease is a misleading term in that there may be a great deal of hardening of the coronary arteries without any obstruction and hence without any symptoms. If obstruction occurs, the victim is seized with so severe a pain in the chest that he can't go on. He may become nauseated and break out in a cold sweat.

The immediate treatment is bed rest in a hospital and inhalation of pure oxygen. During convalescence the victim should read one of the many books about his condition. One of the best is "Heart Attack, New Hope, New Knowledge, New Life" by Prinzmetal and Winter (Simon and Schuster).

Just a Plain Doughnut Is What He Needs

EDITOR'S NOTE - Maine-born John Roderick has been a foreign correspondent for The Associated Press for the last 21 years. And it has been seven years since he was in the United States on vacation. Here are the observations of a slightly puzzled native son.

By JOHN RODERICK NEW YORK (AP) - What has become of the plain old-fashioned doughnut mother used to make?

It has, alas, gone with the wind, along with the two inches of rich cream which once adorned the top of the milk bottle.

When a man has been away from America for seven years, as I have, his thoughts as he comes home are on many things.

I confess unashamedly that Maine lobsters, Boston baked beans and crisp, hot doughnuts washed down by a cool glass of creamy milk figured in my dreams.

I found the beans and lobsters more or less as they once were. But I wandered down Broadway and up Main Street in a fruitless search for the plain doughnut.

The doughnut of my day has married and remarried and produced a star-spangled crop of offspring called "donuts" of all colors, conditions and classes. They are glazed with a frightening variety of red, blue and green icing, impregnated with a thousand exotic flavors.

I created a sensation by asking for a plain doughnut.

I am appalled at the tons of calories Americans daily cram into their mouths.

Friends already alarmingly overweight munch on chocolates, wolf down a malted milk, or tuck away a pie a la mode between meals.

They try to wash away these sins of gluttony with a glass of skim milk. For today skim milk, which we as children regarded with faint contempt as something for hogs, has become a prima donna in fancy dress, beckoning to the fat because it has fewer calories.

I have been struck by the extraordinary contrasts, greater I believe than those I have noted among the Japanese among whom I have lived since 1959.

Never have I seen so much affluence, so many smart homes, apartments, automobiles and public buildings. But beside them there are shocking with something graceful and vital. But what about the 33-story apartment building in New York which I saw soon after arrival? "Isn't urban renewal wonderful?" I exclaimed. "They're taking down that ugly old building." "Are you crazy?" my host asked. "They're not taking it down. They're putting it up." Today's American, I believe, is taller mentally, and even spiritually than ever before. But he is often assailed by waves of mediocrity, compressed into molds of conformity, invited to lose himself to forget his obligations. What he needs is the plain doughnut.

"THE BIG OVERHEAD"

In ordinary bridge circles if one side is dealt almost all of the high cards it does all of the bidding. The opponents listen and hope for the best but fear and expect the worst. In expert circles a player with bad cards will occasionally stick in a nuisance bid in an effort to disrupt his opponents and get them to the wrong contract. Sometimes these nuisance bids work, other times they just break even, once in awhile they explode in the user's face. Left to themselves North and South would undoubtedly have gotten to the same six spade contract they reached after West stuck in his monkey wrench three heart bid. The difference is that if West had just kept quiet, South would almost surely have gone down one trick. As it was South drew trumps with three leads and noted that West followed to all three. Then he cashed his three club tricks and saw that West produced exactly one card in that suit. This accounted for four of West's cards. It seemed certain that West would hold the king of hearts for his three heart bid. He had nothing else. How many hearts did he have? It seemed reasonable that he would hold seven of them. West's bid was bad enough with a seven-card suit and it would have been hopeless with a six-carder. After these thoughts, South cashed his ace of hearts and played three rounds of diamonds. East had to win the third diamond and was forced to lead either a club or diamond. This gave South a chance to discard his queen of hearts; ruff in dummy and make his slam.

This Dog Appears to Be Nervous Wreck

By BILL SIMMONS

NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — He cowers on the floor, eyes wild, muscles taut, starkly frightened.

He is E53, a dog — and a nervous wreck.

But E53 hasn't been subjected to duress; he hasn't been harassed or tortured; his life isn't stressful.

Like emotionally normal dogs living under the same circumstances, he is regularly well-fed in clean, dry, well-kept kennels. Physically, he seems healthy and well.

Emotionally, he's a shambles. And it's no accident.

E53 is a product of selective breeding — a research project by three doctors who believe that genes, the carriers of inherited traits, are a big factor in mental stability, in man as well as dog.

"The first thing everyone asks is 'What have you done to those dogs?'" said Dr. O. D. Murphree, psychologist at Veterans Administration Hospital here. "All we have done is select the parents."

The study is a collaborative effort by Murphree and Drs. R. A. Dykman and J. E. Peters of the University of Arkansas Medical Center in Little Rock.

Together they have bred two separate strains of bird dogs: the "E line" — dogs like E53; and the "A line" — "normal" dogs that act like the family pet.

Both groups are treated alike. The finger is pointed at genes because environmental differences have been reduced to almost none.

MASSIVE MEMORIAL—Bolivian sculptor Mauro Nunez cut out a big job for himself when he took on a memorial to Simon Bolivar, South America's George Washington. The massive head of the founder of five nations—Venezuela, Colombia, Peru, Ecuador and Bolivia—is carved from a thousand-year-old algarrobo tree, is 10 feet high and weighs four tons. It will stand in the Bolivian capital of La Paz as a permanent memorial to Bolivar.

Chanting Is Dynamite Cap In College Marches, Sit-ins

BY RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — There's a common pattern in the emotional violence of the American student protest marches and sit-ins—whether against Viet Nam, the draft or university rules.

The violent pitch usually follows prolonged chanting or singing.

There is evidence the students are systematically worked up by experts.

This same pattern was noted by an American reporter in the 1960 Tokyo riots against President Eisenhower. The reporter moved without hurt among the demonstrators for five hours on the day of major violence, at the climax of which a howling army of students stormed the Japanese parliament. He wrote:

"They were too well-organized to be called a 'mob.' Individually, the demonstrators were just nice college kids out for a lark, amiable and polite. Occasionally, a few would stop and gather around me to express a liking for America, democracy and individual Americans like me.

"But toward evening, the agitators lined them up 20 abreast in a phalanx of locked arms. At each end, leaders with whistles blew a rhythmic one-two-three-four beat. They all jogged in unison to it, chanting . . . to the beat . . . The earth literally shook under their dogtrot. As night came on, in the glare of the Japanese lanterns, the whole effect was hypnotic. Soon they had the glazed eyes of creatures frenzied beyond human reason."

A COMMUNIST PARTY USA general directive for the organization of demonstrations says: "Demonstrations must under no circumstances proceed in silence. Party members are responsible for seeing to it that the masses sing revolutionary songs and that appropriate slogans are chanted (in chorus)."

A Communist Party USA front organization article declares:

"Singing stirs emotion, and emotion makes people act . . . A Communist front group leader in Los Angeles explained: 'I have sung to guys who wouldn't listen if you talked literally to them, but they damn near tore down the house with enthusiasm when you sing it to them. Of course, you must select your material so that it is a gradual education, otherwise you might find yourself rapidly getting nowhere.'"

Another front organization article noted: "It is surprising how much of the meaning of a song is absorbed by a child while singing it. The message of some of the contemporary folk songs carries greater weight in songs than in plain language." Politically oriented folk songs "make a deeper and more lasting impression than 20 lectures on the same subject."

A MEDICAL RESEARCHER into the subject says: "Electrical recordings of the human brain show . . . certain rates of rhythm can build up recordable abnormalities of brain function and explosive states of tension . . ."

Other research indicates chants can compel whole crowds to accept political beliefs. The hypnotizing ritual gradually breaks the will.

The technique is comparable to Hitler's torchlight parades and chanting marches.

Such rhythm-induced hypnotic trances reportedly can inhibit moral scruples, leading young men and women to take part in violent riot actions they would never consider under normal conditions.

The researchers believe their study has produced evidence to challenge the idea that environment is the major factor in mental instability.

"What we get in our study indicates that genes are the major factor," Murphree said.

For three generations under standardized conditions, healthy dogs have produced healthy offsprings; the bizarre have yielded bizarre.

There is, of course, the variable: the 10 per cent who don't turn out quite like others in their line.

With financial support from a number of agencies, the research began in 1961 and the evidence started rolling in.

After a few months, the first generation "E line" dogs began to show emotional instability — fleeing from human approach, cringing at the most harmless gesture.

There is some evidence that the instability shows up at younger ages with each succeeding generation — a trend Murphree called the "self-limiting factor."

"It isn't uncommon to hear someone say that nervous disease appeared late in the life of a member of a family, then in the middle years of his offspring, and in the youth of the next generation," he said.

The factor is self-limiting because eventually one becomes so withdrawn that he produces no offspring.

Automatic Message Machine

One of the most intriguing pieces of equipment which will help bring direct distance dialing to Hope and Bodcaw on June 26 is the automatic message accounting (AMA) machine, according to Frank Meeks, manager for Southwestern Bell-Arkansas her.

"I'm sure all the telephone users here in Hope and Bodcaw will enjoy DDD," Meeks explained. "They will be interested in how this modern communications system works overall, but in particular, how they are billed by machine."

The manager explained how the AMA machine accomplishes this very difficult task:

"When you dial your own long distance call, this special electronic machine punches holes in a paper tape for billing purposes. The holes in the tape indicate the date, your telephone number, the city and distant number you call and the time the party you are calling answers and your call ends."

"It's important to understand that the AMA machine indicates if you fail to complete your call because of a busy signal or the party you are calling fails to answer. In this situation, the punches indicate the call was not completed and you will not be billed for the call.

"These tapes, on long rolls, are through other machines which 'read' the tape and transpose the punched holes into meaningful numbers used for billing purposes."

"In other words, you're being billed electronically," Meeks concluded.

The manager reminded how DDD calls can be made in Hope and Bodcaw when the new service starts early the morning of June 26.

"First you dial '1' to gain access of the DDD equipment, then the area code for the city you are calling, then the distant telephone number."

Meeks added that DDD is "Fast, efficient, and we feel that everyone here in Hope and Bodcaw will really enjoy it."

During the Revolutionary War, leaves of a native buckthorn shrub which grows along the East Coast all the way to Florida and as far west as Texas were used to make tea. Today the plant is called New Jersey tea.

Without Fuss World Just Not Normal

WASHINGTON (AP) — It wouldn't be normal if the world wasn't uneasy. This is a very normal time, full of fuss and fret.

Just as opinion polls show dwindling public confidence in President Johnson's handling of the war in Viet Nam, his administration pumps out information that things are looking better there.

But Premier Nguyen Cao Ky hasn't yet suppressed the Buddhists demonstrating against him; one day after another seems unpredictable; and the administration's optimism may be premature.

Fourteen North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies, including the United States, have just patched together their alliance which was badly busted by French President Charles de Gaulle who is pulling his troops out of NATO and wants NATO bases out of France.

Uneasy, they tried not to offend the saucy Frenchman as he prepares for a trip to Moscow to have his own summit meeting with the Russians, an adventure whose outcome also is unpredictable. The Western allies have no monopoly on the nervous feeling. The whole Communist world is looking tattered.

CROP-DUSTING NEWCOMER—A new plane is entering the rapidly expanding crop-dusting field. Cessna Aircraft Co. is bringing out two models of an all-metal, low-wing plane called the Agwagon designed for greater speed, economy and pilot protection. It can effectively work over fields at speeds of 85 to 110 m.p.h.

The Warsaw Pact nations, the Red counterpart to NATO, have had a dragged-out meeting with Romania wondering out loud if it wouldn't be better to scrap NATO and the Warsaw Pact, too.

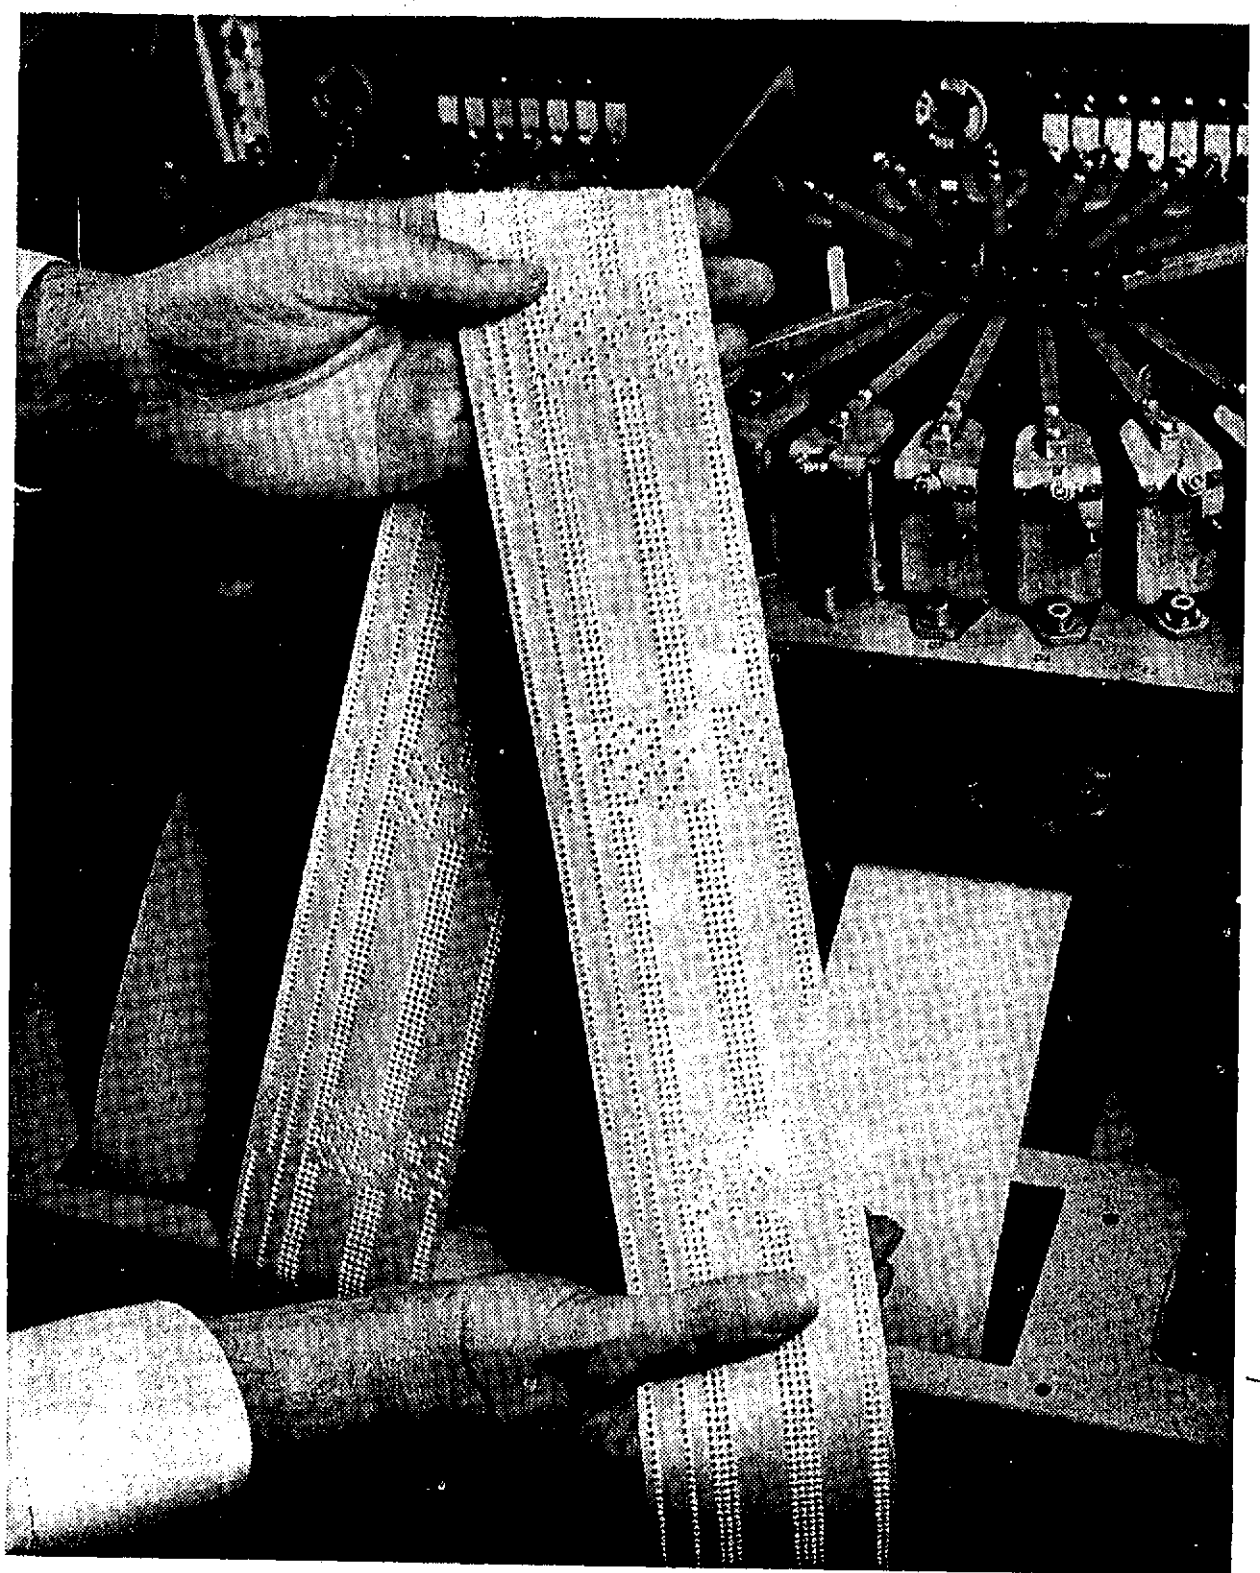

Russian-Chinese relations couldn't be much worse, but they're getting to be anyway showing Johnson's popularity at and the Chinese are so far from its lowest point, you might think being relaxed that they are purging themselves, which the Republicans would be perking up. Just the contrary.

Two of them who made it before, both governors, Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, took themselves out of presidential consideration for all time, or so they said.

The only other Republican who now look like the most likely prospects — Michigan's George Romney and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon — aren't talking about it.

At the moment Romney trying to get re-elected governor and Nixon isn't saying what he hopes are.

WHEN DDD STARTS HERE...

ELECTRONIC EQUIPMENT WILL TIME YOUR DDD CALLS AUTOMATICALLY

Fast, easy, economical Direct Distance Dialing is coming to all telephone customers in Hope and Bodcaw.

The punched paper tape pictured above is a record of DDD calls. When you get DDD, your calls will be timed automatically by modern electronic equipment with split-second accuracy. Only the economical station-to-station long distance rates are charged when you use DDD. Timing begins when the called telephone is answered—ends when either you or the called person hangs up.

When you start dialing the Area Code number for a distant city, the electronic equipment begins punching indentations on the paper tape. The holes record the number you dial and the length of the call from the time the other party answers until someone hangs up.

The tape is sent through other equipment which translates the punched entries into information to be transferred to your monthly bill.

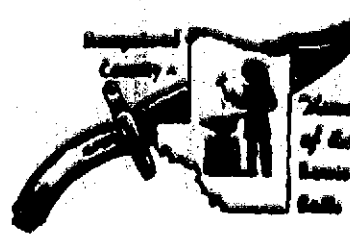

You'll like DDD. With it, you'll be mere seconds away from your out-of-town friends and loved ones. For with DDD, your long distance calls will go through faster than ever before.

Success Story of South's First Newsprint Mill

Our trade publications carry the announcement that St. Regis Paper Co., a diversified manufacturer of international fame, has bought a 28% interest in Southland Paper Mills, Inc., of Lufkin, Texas — with whom The Star holds a charter supply contract dating back to the opening in Lufkin in February 1940.

Southland is one of the great industrial success stories of America — written by Southern inventors, Southern capital, and Southern managers.

St. Regis, claiming no intent to disturb the present management at Lufkin, picked Southland as a means of getting back into newsprint production — a field from which it withdrew some years ago to concentrate on higher-priced paper products, information which I gather from Editor & Publisher magazine of June 11 and bulletins from Southern Newspaper Publishers Association, of which The Star is a member.

For Southland stock the St. Regis company paid $215 a common share. Business men will appreciate the fantastic success story behind the Lufkin mill when I give these details:

Back in the 1930's Dr. Charles H. Herty, a chemist of Savannah, Ga., was backed by members of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association in experiments to discover whether the coarse white paper known as newsprint could be made from Southern pine. Up to that time all newsprint was produced from Northern spruce, in the belief that Southern pine had too much resinous stain to permit use of this pulp for white paper. And yet the commercial possibilities were tremendous if this handicap could be overcome, for Northern spruce takes 40 years to grow to pulpwood size while Southern pine requires only 12 years.

Dr. Herty came through with a magnificent discovery. He found that Southern pine harvested at just 12 years had no more resinous stain than Northern spruce — and a batch of test pulp from his Savannah laboratory was hauled to Canada in the late 1930's and made into newsprint and used successfully by nine Georgia dailies. The Star carried copies of all nine newspapers on its bulletin board for months.

Southern newspaper publishers put up money for a newsprint mill on the outskirts of Lufkin, at a new town named Herty, Texas, in honor of the man who developed the new manufacturing process the mill would use.

Additional money was obtained from Southern banks and from the federal Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Stockholders bore the brunt of the multi-million-dollar gamble — they took preferred stock for their money and got the common stock as a bonus — worth at the time zero.

The Lufkin mill boomed from the start. Other mills followed in a few years — at Coosa River, Ala., Cleveland, Tenn., Mobile, Ala., Pine Bluff, Ark., and elsewhere. Lufkin twice expanded its capacity with additional newsprint machines — and now is completing a second mill in Texas.

Long ago Southland paid off the RFC, paid off the banks, and retired the preferred stock. That left only the common stock — once worth zero, but for which St. Regis the other day paid $215 a share!

Pilot Executed

HAVANA (AP) — An airline flight engineer who killed two men when he tried to hijack a plane was executed immediately after his conviction Wednesday, and a Roman Catholic priest who gave him refuge was sentenced to 15 years in prison.

Angel Maria Betancourt Cueto was executed by a firing squad at dawn after a trial in La Cabaña Fortress that began Tuesday afternoon.

He killed a guard aboard a Soviet-built Ilyushin 18 airliner on March 27 and ordered the pilot to fly to Miami. When the pilot tricked him and landed at Havana Airport, Betancourt shot him to death and escaped. He was captured two weeks later in a Roman Catholic convent. The Rev. Miguel A. Loredo Garcia was sentenced for hiding him there, but another priest was acquitted.

Chandler Out of Race, to Back Alford

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Winston Chandler bowed out of the race for governor Thursday and today threw his support to Dale Alford.

Chandler, a Little Rock businessman, reduced the field for the Democratic Party gubernatorial nomination with his surprise withdrawal.

He said at the time that he would give his reasons for withdrawing later — and today he joined Alford's drive for the party nomination.

It was, incidentally, Alford who recently predicted that the field would be reduced in number.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Suddenly there were seven. Winston Chandler, Little Rock businessman, announced Thursday he was withdrawing as a candidate for the Democratic nomination in the governor's race.

Chandler issued his surprise withdrawal statement through his business office, and promised to give his reason in the near future. He was not available for comment.

Some political observers and at least one Democratic candidate, Dr. Dale Alford, had predicted the field would be reduced from the eight men who qualified.

Chandler, 46, president of a trailer convey firm and a member of the Pulaski County (Rural) School Board, had not been considered by political observers as one of the top prospects to win the party nomination.

Officials Say Man Can Walk on Moon

By JOHN D. MCCLAIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. space officials, concluding from Surveyor 1 pictures that man can walk on the moon, say future lunar landings will include further tests to determine whether man can survive on the planet 240,000 miles from earth.

"The success of Surveyor 1 does not change any plans as far as we're concerned," said Dr. Homer E. Newell, associate administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

"But we're very definitely looking to what else can be included in future Surveyor flights," he added.

Surveyor 1, the first of seven spacecraft designed for soft lunar landings in 1966 and 1967, has transmitted 10,388 pictures of the moon's surface since it landed June 2.

President Declares U.S. Ready to Talk Peace at Any Time

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says the United States stands ready to discuss peace prospects for Viet Nam "anytime, anywhere, with any government."

Thumping the podium with his fist for emphasis, the President departed Thursday from his prepared speech to a group of legislative leaders in the White House rose garden to reiterate U.S. willingness for peace talks.

"All they have to do to test us is to name the place and date; they will find us there," Johnson said. "But you can't have a unilateral contract. The other side has to want to talk too."

The President's comments came about two hours after Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana proposed in a New York speech that Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi meet to explore peace for Viet Nam.

When asked for Johnson's reaction to Mansfield's suggestion, White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers said the President "welcomed any constructive suggestions from members of Congress, members of the Senate." Moyers then called attention to Johnson's comments on peace talks in the speech to the legislative leaders.

A State Department spokesman cautiously encouraged Mansfield's call for face-to-face discussions but expressed doubt Peking would agree.

"We'll just wait and see," said press officer Robert J. McCloskey. But McCloskey reaffirmed that Rusk is ready "to go to Geneva tomorrow" to discuss peace with anyone from the Communist side.

In this rose garden speech, Johnson said the United States is not fighting in Viet Nam only for the 14 million people of that country. "We are fighting for almost three billion people who also want freedom and liberty. And we must continue to fight until men are convinced that it is better to talk than fight," he said.

The President said U.S. policy is designed to serve notice to the world that "gangsterism and aggression and force are not to be rewarded."

"We have what other people want. If they develop the power and the strength to take it don't you think they won't try," he said.

The legislators from 37 states, Guam and Puerto Rico earlier had endorsed Johnson's Viet Nam policies.

Later in the day, the President said his administration would strive to strengthen the United Nations' "capabilities for peaceful settlement in a crisis, and better means for resolving disputes before they reach the stage of crisis."

Without specifically mentioning Viet Nam, the President said in a message read at a New York dinner of the U.N. Association of the United States:

"The international community, working through the United Nations, should be able to deal with all forms of aggression, including indirect aggression and subversion."

Johnson also received what he termed an impressive report from William J. Porter, deputy ambassador to Saigon, on pacification programs aimed at bettering the lives of Vietnamese deemed secure from Viet Cong attack.

But in a statement following his Conference with Porter the President added: "I will be the first to say that we and our Vietnamese allies still have a long way to go."

More than 1,200 teachers were told at a State Department briefing that the vast majority of the South Vietnamese want to move into a constitutional democratic system.

The U.S. officials who gave this view could not be named under rules of the two-day session. Among those listed as speakers were Rusk, Walt W. Rostow, presidential national security affairs adviser, and William P. Bundy, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs.

Bell to Test New System

MEMPHIS (AP) — Bell Telephone Laboratories will field test a new high-capacity communications system between Memphis and Little Rock beginning June 22, officials announced Wednesday.

R. M. Hunt, division manager for Southern Bell, said the relay system is capable of handling 12,000 simultaneous conversations or 10 television channels at one time. Relay stations will be placed about 25 miles apart along the trial route, he said.

3,804 GIs Killed in Viet Nam Battle

NEW YORK (AP) — In nearly 5½ years of war in Viet Nam, the United States has lost 3,804 men to enemy action. 3,454 of them since June 1, 1965, a study of casualty figures showed today. The South Vietnamese reported nearly 11,000 battle dead in the period since June 1965.

The sharp increase in the number of Americans killed over the past year demonstrates the heavy buildup of U.S. forces in Viet Nam.

The heaviest weekly toll of U.S. servicemen killed in action was 224 in the week ending Nov. 22, 1965, reflecting the bitterness of the fighting at Ia Drang Valley, in the central highlands.

In three weeks this year, in the April and May period in which the Saigon government turned its attention to the quelling of an internal effort to overthrow it, the number of American battle dead exceeded the South Vietnamese.

In the period June 1, 1965 to May 31, 1966, the United States reported 3,030 battle dead, with 251 added in the first two weeks of this month. U.S. wounded reported from June 1, 1965 to May 31, 1966 totalled 17,979.

In the period June 1, 1965, through May 31, 1966, the figures — with none available for three weeks — show South Vietnamese reporting 10,918 combat dead. They do not report figures for wounded.

Include State Police, Says Pilkinton

Judge James H. Pilkinton, Hope attorney and candidate for Lieutenant-Governor of Arkansas, said today that his proposal to increase the pay of law enforcement officers in the state include all officers, state, county and municipal.

"One of the Little Rock papers in reporting what I said on the subject seemed to imply that I had reference to only city and county officers. My proposal also covers the Arkansas State Police, and my remarks so stated very plainly," he said.

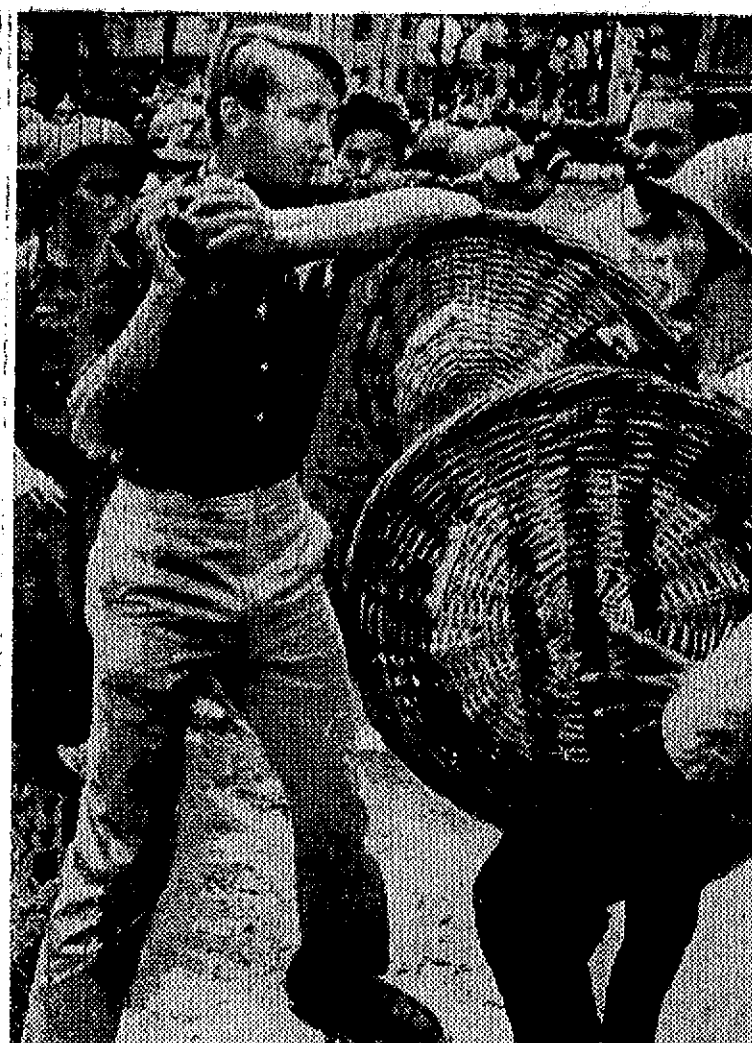

Judge Pilkinton also said that he was making a detailed study of Firemen's salaries and intended to make a separate speech on that subject in the near future.

"Their pay is disgracefully low too. I will have more to say about that soon, and will have some facts and figures to show what I mean."

GREENWOOD, Miss. (AP) — "We waste black power! We want black power!" the 1,000 Negroes chanted it again and again.

On the back of a truck, facing them on a lighted baseball field Thursday night, stood Stokely Carmichael, head of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee. He and two other in the Mississippi march had just come from seven hours in jail.

"Everybody owns our neighborhood except us," Carmichael roared. "We outnumber the whites in this county; we want black power. That's what we want. Black power!"

Carmichael's speech climaxed the most troubled day of the march since James H. Meredith, the first Negro known to have graduated from the University of Mississippi, was not and wounded June 6.

Monks Seem Divided on Action Plan

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Unable to buckle the military junta's tough posture the Buddhist Institute's radicals called today for a three-day general strike.

About 100 monks offered themselves for arrest and three vehicles, including a U.S. Embassy Jeep, went up in flames in the fifth day of disorders in Saigon.

Knobs of Buddhist demonstrators roamed near the grounds of the Buddhist Institute on the outskirts of Saigon, spilling debris in the streets and shouting insults at police. But the scattered agitation produced nothing more serious than some traffic jams.

Riot police fired tear gas grenades into a monk-led throng of about 500 demonstrators gathered at the Saigon waterfront. Ten of the demonstrators were hauled off by police in trucks.

U.S. Air Force B52 Stratofortress scared the war to a Communist troop and supply depot in the jungles near the Cambodian frontier 60 miles northwest of Saigon.

The Guam-based bombers dropped their massive explosives in support of a two-week-old sweep by the U.S. 1st Infantry Division, which a spokesman said had killed at least 175 communists.

Stephens Named by Governor

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus has said he will appoint W. R. Stephens, board chairman of Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co., to the State Hospital Board of Control.

Stephens, a backer of Faubus, was appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late Dr. Joe Shuffield of Little Rock. The term expires Jan. 14, 1969.
